5. Comments:

5.1) Please identify what you perceive to be the real strengths and weaknesses of this teaching assistant and course.

- I asked him 3 question, all of them he did not know how to answer. At some point just stopped asking, and went to different TA's.
- I do not think the sections for 104 are honestly that valuable to the class as a whole, as I do not think the economics department does a very good job at explaining the concepts of R and other coding systems before expecting students to carry out full assignments on these systems. Because of this, many students don't understand what the TA is doing during section. Furthermore, I feel like there is not a lot of consistency in what is being gone over section by section. One of my classmates said her TA was teaching them math related to 104 in her section, while my TA was attempting to go over the mechanics of R. I think consistency throughout sections is important, especially if students cannot make their assigned section some weeks and have to attend another.
